Reviews and previews

Council to act on permits

The Granite City Council will take up the issue of occupancy permits at its Tuesday night meeting at City Hall. The council is expected to place an ordinance on final passage that would require a permit before a dwelling can be occupied and utilities can be turned on. The council is enacting the measure to keep residential housing quality in the city from deteriorating.

Ambulance report expected

The Madison City Council is expected to hear a report at next week's council meeting on what to do with the city's troubled ambulance service. A committee set up to study alternatives to the city-owned service will offer an evaluation of one of the options. An alternative being studied is to contract the service to a private ambulance company.

Board member resigns

District 9 Board of Education member Jerry McKechan resigned from the board last week. McKechan said he wanted to become a teacher again. The board will have 30 days to appoint a replacement. McKechan served less than a year of his four-year term. A replacement will have to stand for election on Nov. 4, 1987, the next board election date.

50 years ago

Thursday, Sept. 3, 1936

Tell it like it is

Q: Should plea bargaining ever be used for murder cases?

Joe Greene

"It's (plea bargaining) a crock. The vast majority of murderers murder because they want to murder. It does absolutely no good for the judicial system. It should not be used for any heinous crimes. There are times it could be used. But it does not deter crime." -Madison

Martha Kinder

"No, there shouldn't be any plea bargaining because they (criminals) don't give people they murder a chance." -Granite City

NEXT WEEK: What do you think of the Granite City Council's decision to enact occupancy permit requirements in order to enforce building codes?
To record your answer, phone 452-0222 between 5:30 p.m. and 8 a.m. daily. Leave your name, hometown and phone number for verification purposes.

Quote of the week

"We've just about decided after the meeting tonight that we're going to draw up papers to send to Mayor Cruse for Pontoon Beach to annex Granite City. We all think that's a pretty good idea at this point," said Pontoon Beach Trustee Don Rea at a board meeting.

GRANITE CITY — The new home of Parents Plus, at 1928 Grand Ave., was opened with a ribbon-cutting ceremony Friday.

Slate Sen. Sam Vadalabene, D-Edwardsville, State Rep. Sam Wolf, D-Granite City, and Police Chief Bill Harris attended the ceremonies.

"TODAY, as we look to the future, we can give thanks to organizations such as Parents Plus which are taking a bite out of the welfare rolls," Vadalabene said. "And, most importantly, giving these young people and their children a future."

"This is a place they can call their own," said Keith Neuber, project coordinator for Parents Plus.

The program encourages teenage parents to continue their education, acquire a job, and get off public aid, Neuber said.

Parents Plus also teaches skills and responsibilities needed to be a good parent.

NEUBER SAID 1,400 live births a year in Madison and St. Clair counties are to teenage parents. Many of these parents eventually end up on public aid.

"It has been estimated that teen pregnancy costs the state of Illinois as much as $853 million annually," Vadalabene said. "That's more than $200 per household a year."

Parents Plus recently received an award from the director of Illinois Children and Family Services for its efforts in raising community support, Neuber said.

"WE NOW HAVE" community visibility," he said.

"I think this is the best program that has happened for the youth of our community," said WGNU radio personality Shirley Adams, who attended the ceremonies.

The new facility is equipped with a kitchen, an office and a play room for children. A section of the basement will be developed into a crafts area, Neuber said.

"THIS PARENTS Plus program is very supportive and gives a lot of information," said Belinda Walker, a participant in the program for 1½ years.

Walker said members of Parents Plus were present at the hospital the day she had her baby.

Annexation hearing continued by judge

By Norma Mendoza

EDWARDSVILLE — The hearing of two annexation proposals by Granite City is continued to Sept. 15 at 2 p.m.

Judge Edward G. Ferguson on Friday granted the continuance to give Nameki Township and its attorney, Irv Slate Jr., time to analyze and review petitions for annexation in the Gerbe Addition. The extra time also gives Granite City a chance to amend the legal description, which posed some questions.

Slate said first examination of eight pages of signatures raised questions about validity. He said at least one property owner appears to have sold the property within the area to be annexed.

Ferguson told the Granite City attorneys, Mark Goldenberg and John Hopkins, that the outline of the area to be annexed needs to be more

Barton given probation

EDWARDSVILLE — Fred Finck, 55, Godfrey, a former member of the County Board of Review, was found innocent Friday of all pending charges against him.

Another former assessment official, James W. Barton, 63, of Granite City, was sentenced the same day to two years of probation, fined $1,000 and costs, and ordered to perform 400 hours of public service work.

THE VERDICT on Finck came at the end of a non-jury trial.

Associate Judge Charles Romani Jr. found Finck innocent of conspiracy to commit official misconduct and conspiracy to commit bribery in an alleged assessment reduction scheme.

Two additional charges against Finck were dismissed earlier by Romani.

Barton, former Madison County supervisor of assessments, was sentenced by Associate Judge Edward Ferguson.

Intimidation, deprivation banned by new abuse law

Legislation that rewrites domestic violence law in Illinois and gives more protection to a wider range of abuse victims was signed into law Aug. 21 by Gov. James R. Thompson. It takes effect immediately.

"Domestic violence is a serious crime against the individual and society, a crime that produces family problems that sometimes end tragically and are always felt by society. Illinois has been active in the domestic violence issue since it signed the first Domestic Violence Act four years ago," the governor said.

"It is more than a criminal justice or law enforcement issue. It is a human rights issue," he said. "House Bill 2409 broadens the rights of spouses, the elderly, children and others to live without the fear of physical abuse, harassment or intimidation."

Under the measure Thompson signed at a domestic violence shelter for women, the scope of the act is widened, giving more protection to abuse victims, expanding the definitions of abuse and clarifying the legal procedures used in protection and assisting abuse victims. To say that even with the new law, more needs to be done to apply its provisions. He said that while shelters such as the one in which he signed HB 2409 receive financial support from the General Revenue Fund, another revenue source was eliminated earlier this year when the Supreme Court ruled a surcharge on marriage licenses unconstitutional.

Administration officials are continuing to meet with representatives from groups such as the Illinois Coalition Against Domestic Violence to find another revenue source. In the meantime, he noted that in the fiscal year 1987 budget he approved last month, shelters in Illinois will receive $2.1 million, a 26 percent increase.

The foundation of HB 2409 is taken from the 1982 Act and broadened with the addition of several more abuse categories, such as intimidation of a dependent or willful deprivation.

Forcing a person who is dependent because of age, health or disability to participate in or witness abuse involving physical force, confinement or restraint is defined as "intimidation of a dependent."

Another new category — "willful deprivation" — is defined as denying help to a person who, because of age, health or disability, requires medication, medical care, a therapeutic device or other physical assistance.

Other provisions that expand the 1982 law include:

• Permitting children from a previous marriage and persons who at one time lived together to seek legal protection from abuse.

• Giving the courts the authority to order an abuser to stay away from a victim's place of employment.

• Reaffirming the right of a victim to confidential communication with a trained domestic violence counselor, a right similar to a doctor-patient or lawyer-client relationship. Without such assurances, some victims are reluctant to seek help.

Aggressive monitoring of child abuse cuts deaths

Aggressive monitoring of child abuse cases in Illinois has caused a tenfold increase in the number of cases reported in the last decade to the state's chief agency for child safety, Comptroller Roland W. Burris said this week.

Through a shift in emphasis by the Department of Children and Family Services toward curbing child abuse in the state, the number of cases reported to the agency increased from 6,734 in fiscal 1976 to 69,627 in fiscal 1985.

Burris emphasized the intensified monitoring of these cases also resulted in the reduction of deaths from child abuse from 101 in fiscal 1981 to 55 in FY 1985.

He noted that the DCFS has made changes which encourage family stability and focus on abused children.

DCFS expenditures increased from $114.5 million in fiscal 1976 to $223.5 million in fiscal 1985, a 95.2 percent increase. The '85 expenditures ranked DCFS seventh among state agencies.

The largest spending program within DCFS is for substitute care for children whose safety and well-being cannot be guaranteed by their natural families. In these cases, a child is placed in a foster or group home or institution.

Spending for substitute care in fiscal 1985 was $75.5 million and constituted 33.7 percent of agency spending. Protective services, which incorporate investigations of child abuse reports, accounted for 31.9 percent of DCFS spending for '85.

Protective services spending in '85 was $40.5 million higher or more than three times fiscal 1979 spending. "The dramatic increase," Burris said, "points up the agency's shift toward protecting those children who are victims of child abuse."

"Protective care for abused children has undergone extraordinary changes in the last decade. DCFS has implemented intensive advertising campaigns and a 24-hour hotline to fight the problem of child abuse and to increase reporting of abuse cases."

During fiscal 1985, 6,452 of the 69,627 children reported as child abuse victims were taken into temporary protective custody by DCFS. The expanded child protection effort has caused operations spending to increase four times since '79 — from $8.8 million to $35.5 million in fiscal 1985.

In addition to protective care for children, DCFS conducts a program of substitute care for children who cannot be safely left in the custody of their natural families. As of Dec. 31, 1985, 13,288 children were receiving substitute care in Illinois. This was 257 children less than the 13,542 children receiving substitute care on Dec. 31, 1978.

Burris said the decline in the substitute care caseload is a result of the department's policy of providing counseling in an effort to keep a child with his family. When substitute care is unavoidable, the department has increasingly attempted to place the child with relatives.

The Department of Children and Family Services has also shown a large increase in spending for adoptive services since 1979. An expanded adoption effort has increased spending within DCFS from $2.5 million in 1979 to $12.9 million in 1985.

In the area of day care, DCFS oversight of facilities has grown with the trend of more children entering day care facilities as more single parents and two-income families enter the workforce.

In February 1986, DCFS licensed, assisted and monitored 2,434 day care centers and 5,038 day care homes with a total capacity of 131,168 children.

In comparison, the capacity of licensed centers and homes in January 1976 was 121,995.

They are planning an October wedding at Good Shepherd Lutheran Church in Collinsville.

Leslie McClure speaker for Granite City BPW

Becky Slate, president of the Granite City Business and Professional Women's organization, presided over the August dinner meeting at Charlie's Restaurant. Following the dinner hour, introductions of guests and the head table were made by Slate.

The program was prepared by the Finance Committee. Hazel Rollins, chairman, introduced the guest speaker, Leslie McClure. McClure is employed at Granite City Steel as coordinator for human resources.

McClure spoke on the "federation focus" issue, "Pay Equity," described as one of the most important issues facing women today. She said the issue started as far back as the Equal Pay Act and the Civil Rights Act of 1964. It received more attention with enactment of Title VII in 1967.

The Equal Employment Opportunity Commission now has jurisdiction over pay equity. The National Labor Relations Board monitors some aspects of the wages of men and women.

Comparable worth and sex discrimination are both "hot issues" in the 1980s and both are complex, McClure said.

She added that "comparable worth" means an employer should give equal pay to men and women who perform different jobs but have the same value to the organization.

If the value of men's jobs differs from that of women's jobs, the women should be paid at some percentage of the men's pay, based on the value of the jobs, she said.

She said there should be equal pay standards based on equality of responsibility and similarity of working conditions. These standards would be dependent on actual job requirements and performance. She said job content is the controlling factor and not classification.

President Slate presided over the business session and announced the Presidents Council meeting of District XIV will be Sept. 4 at Randy's Restaurant. A garage sale will be held at Kathy Clark's home, 2122 Johnson Road, Sept. 29, and a clown costume sewing class will take place at Jane Isenberg's, 2179 Northland, Sept. 14.

An 8-week individual development course starts Sept. 8, at Brown Realty, Nameoki Road. Annellen Smith is the coordinator. A meeting will be held for National Business Women's Week Sept. 3 at Brown Realty, with Pat Box as chairman.

A National Leadership Conference will be held Saturday, Sept. 20, at Springfield. Tickets for the annual luncheon and style show will cost $10; it will be held at Charlie's Restaurant on Saturday, Nov. 6, at 11:30 a.m.

The Sept. 17 meeting will be hosted by the Foundation Committee.

Koehler called 'rubber stamp' for president

U.S. Sen. Alan Dixon, D-Illinois, has characterized his Republican opponent as casting himself as a "rubber stamp" for President Ronald Reagan.

The president promoted Koehler's candidacy in a political campaign in Illinois last week.

Dixon said he recognized Reagan's personal popularity in Illinois and "I don't want to get in a shouting match with President Reagan." He suggested Reagan's popularity "could not be transferred" to Koehler, however.

"People don't want a rubber stamp. They don't want somebody saying 'Hey, this is my guy. I'll give him anything he wants,'" Dixon said.

Dixon said he believed voters would make their judgment based on his own record rather than a presidential endorsement.

However, he said he expected the race between himself and Koehler to "tighten." Recent polls taken by both Democrats and Republicans have given Dixon as much as a 3-1 lead over Koehler, a state representative.

"There is no way that race can't tighten. There is no way that (the 3-1 margin) can happen at the election," Dixon said.

Dixon also indicated he does not expect to directly respond to most of Koehler's campaign jabs, calling some of them so far "so nonsensical it denigrates me to respond."

"I probably won't say much about her. I think people know my record and understand what she's doing," Dixon said.

He then referred to Koehler's complaint with the Federal Election Commission that Dixon was assisting the nominal candidate for U.S. senator on Adlai Stevenson's "Solidarity Party" ticket. Dixon described the complaint as "nitty."

"Obviously a third-party candidate takes votes away from me. Obviously I don't want anybody on there," Dixon said.

Asked why he had agreed to at least two debates with Koehler, Dixon replied, "Because I always do (debates)."

Koehler's press secretary, Jim Gray said she was "in tune" with Reagan's policies and he didn't know of any areas in which they differed. However, he said "she's running on her own legislative record."

Dixon said he thought Adlai Stevenson was "moving up" in his race with Gov. James Thompson and "there is a good probability that will be a close race."

As for Stevenson's decision to form the Solidarity Party rather than run on the Democratic ticket with supporters of extremist Lyndon LaRouche, Dixon said, "People are aware of the situation and know how to split a ticket."

"I wouldn't be the senior U.S. senator from Illinois today if it weren't for ticket splitting," he added.

Dixon noted that when he was elected to the Senate in 1980 he ran one million votes ahead of Democratic President Jimmy Carter in the state.

"Obviously people know how to be selective," Dixon said.

Rail merger dropped; Hartigan says it would have hurt this region, state

Illinois Attorney General Neil Hartigan last week hailed and took some of the credit for Norfolk Southern Railroad's decision to withdraw its bid to purchase the government-owned Conrail system.

Hartigan lobbied against the proposed sale to Norfolk Southern in testimony before Congressional committees last fall and also urged other state attorneys general to oppose it.

He contended the sale would have created an anti-competitive monopoly in 56 Illinois counties, including Madison County.

He also objected that Norfolk Southern had plans to divert major traffic away from Chicago and the East St. Louis area to Kansas City if it acquired Conrail.

Hartigan also alleged Norfolk Southern had plans to eliminate up to 1,000 Conrail jobs in Illinois, and predicted a rise in shipping rates by as much as 25 percent — if the sale had gone through — that would particularly hurt Illinois farmers.

Hartigan also credited lobbying by other competitive railroads, particularly Illinois Central Gulf and Chicago Northwestern, and railroad employees' unions as leading to Norfolk Southern's decision to abandon its bid.

The two Illinois U.S. Senators also were active in fighting it. "I will continue to work with members of Congress and my fellow attorneys general to ensure rail service in Illinois and other affected states remains competitive and that our citizens' jobs remain secure," Hartigan said.

Midwest governors to meet in Illinois on rural issues

Illinois has been chosen to host the 26th annual Midwest Governors' Conference next year.

The conference will be held from Sept. 13 to 16, 1987, at Eagle Ridge Inn in Galena. In addition to Illinois, the conference includes Indiana, Iowa, Kansas, Kentucky, Michigan, Minnesota, Missouri, Nebraska, North Dakota, Ohio, South Dakota and Wisconsin.

Rural revitalization will be the principal topic in the meetings, with emphasis on grain quality, marketing of rural America, and economic development of rural areas.

"The scenic hills and the historic Galena homes are some of the most beautiful in Illinois, if not the nation," Gov. James R. Thompson said.

"It offers a perfect setting for talks about preservation of the values of small town and rural life."

In recent months, the Governor's Task Force on the Future of Rural Illinois has held hearings in all parts of our state to hear from people who have invested their lives in the farms and small towns of Illinois. Lt. Gov. George H. Ryan, who chairs the Task Force, anticipates the completion of a "Rural Illinois 2000" plan by early next year, and I am certain that our action agenda on a broad range of issues also will assist other Midwestern Governors.

"The task force has been asked to recommend immediate and long-range goals on economic development, education, health care, local government, production agriculture, and agri-business."

"The combination of agricultural recession and technological change has worked hardships on many farm families, but Illinois has responded with the most generous and progressive programs of farm assistance in the nation. The conference will permit us to highlight our operating loan programs, debt restructuring opportunities, stress counseling, low-cost legal assistance and many other benefits."

Objections voiced against annexing

By Norma Mendoza

CHOUTEAU — More than 75 people came to Chouteau Township Hall during the meeting on Tuesday, Aug. 26, to hear Township Attorney Jim Sinclair explain aspects of the new state law about annexation.

The meeting was arranged by the Chouteau Citizens Club.

Robert Lekrone of the Citizens Club invited Township Supervisor Morris Miles to make an opening statement.

"As your township supervisor, I'm totally opposed to Granite City annexing anything in Chouteau into Granite City," Miles said. "When Granite City annexes, we lose our township."

"People call me on the phone asking, 'What does it mean?' and 'What are you going to do about it?'" Miles said.

Miles said Sinclair would present alternatives the township could pursue to prevent annexation of Chouteau Township territory by Granite City.

Lekrone, who is also a township trustee, said, "Morris won't commit the Township Board, but I will."

Lekrone called for questions from the audience for the attorney.

All questions and comments directed to Sinclair related to keeping Chouteau Township boundaries intact.

Sinclair said the new legislation provides some relief for townships threatened with loss of territory because of annexations by a coterminous townships.

"This represents a total reversal in policy for the nation's governors. While it was not an easy decision, the governors realize that the imperative to remove the labyrinth of individual state laws that hurt not only manufacturers but also consumers," Thompson said.

"At a time when businesses find themselves in stiff competition with foreign companies that don't face the same legal roadblocks, it makes no sense to force a ladder maker, for example, to meet the liability requirements of 50 different states. The homeowner who just wants to get a good, inexpensive ladder can't pay just for one, but also for the crazy-quilt system that the manufacturer faces in 50 states."

Thompson championed the issue before the Council of Great Lakes Governors in May and now is able, along with Gov. Edward DiPrete of Rhode Island, to push through an even stronger resolution before the full NGA.

"I am not only going to continue urging our Congressional delegation to take action on a uniform law as I have in the past," Thompson said, "but I plan to make sure that our business community rallies to the issue in the coming months."

In other NGA action, the governors approved Thompson's resolution calling on the federal government to approve an additional $350 million for clean-coal systems nationally.

It urges Congress and the President to provide the remaining $750 million reserve for demonstration of "emerging systems that can effectively and economically control pollutants from coal-powered plants."

Illinois provides more state dollars than any state for projects that explore ways to clean coal.

"I don't know if it will make a difference in the particular annexations we are talking about," Sinclair said.

Granite City filed its intent to annex a portion of Chouteau Township on Aug. 8, one day before Gov. James Thompson signed the new bill into law.

A hearing will be held in Edwardsville regarding Granite City's petition Sept. 4.

"The position the city has taken is they will request that an election be held in the specified territory," Sinclair said. "Granite City is probably hoping for it to be on the ballot for the general election in November."

Sinclair said the voters in the area affected are the only ones who will get to vote on annexation.

"If the majority vote against it, then the annexation is off," Sinclair said. "If the vote is 'yes,' the court will notify the city officials who can then decide to annex or not."

Sinclair said there are two ways to stop the annexation. If the court finds Granite City's petition not in order, it is possible it could be dissolved.

"The other way is if you folks can organize people to vote against annexation; it would be dead for at least 12 months."

Sinclair said there are four ways a coterminous city can annex:

1. The city can file for an election in the area.

2. If 51 percent of the voters in the area and all of the property owners petition to have the annexation, it can go forward without an election.

If all of the property owners will not agree, 51 percent of the voters and 51 percent of the owners can file for a court hearing that could override the property owners who object.

• The city can pass an ordinance to annex a particular territory. There is a court hearing where interested parties can object.

• A property owner can ask to be annexed into the city.

"It is not in every instance that an election is held where people get to vote," Sinclair said.

Albert Lenko, who lives near the Tri-Cities Speedway asked, "Can an area create its own coterminous city and township?"

"Theoretically, but as a practical interest, do you want to create another government, a city government?" Sinclair said. "The reason most people live in Chouteau is because they like it the way it is. It may be that the cure is as bad as the disease."

"If I'm not involved in the area being annexed; how will it affect me?" asked Jean Meyer of Mitchell.

"Assuming your township and fire protection district will have to maintain the same level of services, there could be a higher burden on the property owners who remain," Sinclair said. He added that there are limits to the amount of taxes a township can levy.

"What if I object to it costing me more?" Meyer said.

"It looks like you wouldn't have any standing," Sinclair said.

Many of the questioners indicated they do not live in the area being considered for annexation. But several said it is difficult to determine who does because the legal description printed in the paper is unclear.

In response to several requests for a map outlining the exact area, Miles said the Township Board would address the question.

Miles said Sinclair and the assembled group, "This brings us back to our questions — what do we do now?"

"Fight in the election," Sinclair said. "Try to defeat the annexation. Mount a campaign."

Several members of the audience voiced support for such a campaign by offering to make telephone calls and go door-to-door if necessary.

South Roxana Mayor Dan Wilcox said he came to the meeting because of Chouteau Township territory would have an effect on the village of South Roxana.

"If it was just the city of Granite City annexing property, I wouldn't have any problem," Wilcox said. "But I'm opposed to coterminous townships."

Wilcox said people in his village might get involved in a campaign to defeat an annexation if it is on the ballot.

The sentiments of many in the audience were echoed by Carlos Gordon who lives on Gutti just off Old Alton Road.

"It's just not fair that all of the people in the township don't have a say in an election. We're all affected by it."

Barton

BARTON was found guilty in April on two counts of bribery involving money he received from a Bend road area land owner, William Nichols, who sought a special use permit in 1982.

In the sentencing, Friday, Ferguson gave Barton two years of probation on each count, with the terms to run concurrently.

The judge noted the case did not involve Barton's official duties.

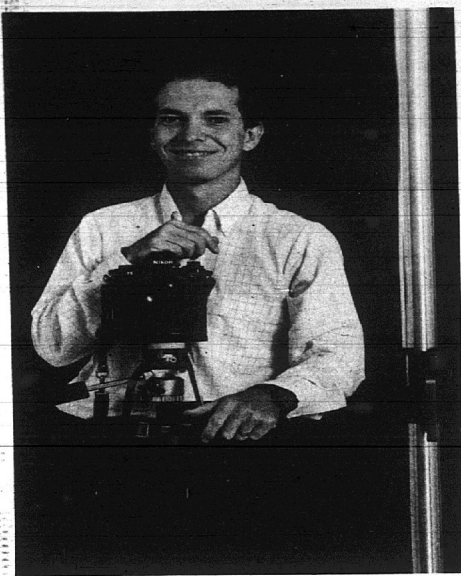

SPECIAL PROSECUTOR Bruce Locher has been sentenced to spend time behind bars for the same crime.

Locher is to spend two weekends in jail due to his attempts to get Madison County out of debt; he was ruled in contempt of court.

However, Barton still faces another trial, Barton, Finck and several others were indicted on charges involving an alleged scheme to lower real estate assessments in exchange for contributions to a fund for Barton's 1982 bribery case.

Barton, Gerald Bassett and Merle Bassett are to go on trial Sept.

Named campus photographer at SIU

Bill Brinson, 31, of Edwardsville, a former director of photography for the St. Louis Globe-Democrat, has been named campus photographer at SIUE.

The appointment, announced recently by James R. Buck, vice president for development and public affairs, fills the position left vacant by the retirement of Charles H. Cox, who served as campus photographer more than 25 years. Brinson is a graduate of SIUE with a bachelor of science degree in mass communications. While an undergraduate, he was photo editor of The Alestle, the campus newspaper, as well as an occasional photographer for the Edwardsville Intelligencer and a photographer and feature writer for the Collinsville Herald.

In November 1976, Brinson became a staff photographer at the Lawrence (Kan.) Daily Journal-World and three months later was named chief photographer. He joined the Globe-Democrat in August 1978, serving in the photographic department until July of this year, including one year as assistant director and more than two years as director of photography. He also has worked as a freelance photographer for magazines, public relations and advertising agencies, professional sports teams, clubs and other organizations and businesses. Brinson has won numerous awards from United Press International, the National Press Photographers Association, and the Illinois Press Photographers Association.

He is married to the former Patty Wild of Edwardsville and they are the parents of three children.

Warriors hope for right mix

By Dave Whaley
Staff writer

GRANITE CITY — It all started to come together at the end of last season. Hopefully, things will come together earlier this season. That sums up the outlook for the Granite City Warriors as they prepare to open the 1986 football season this Friday night at home against Cahokia in a 7:30 game. Last year's struggling 1-4 start was just a bitter memory by the end of the season, as the Warriors found some confidence and finished with three straight wins and a 4-4 mark.

Now, with a proper mixture of experience and youth, head coach Ron Yates is hoping to put together a fine season in the tough Southwestern Conference. "The schedule is tough," said Yates, who enters his third season with a 7-8 career record at Granite City. "I can't make a prediction on what our record might be. It could really be anywhere from 2-7 to 7-2, depending on what kind of breaks we get."

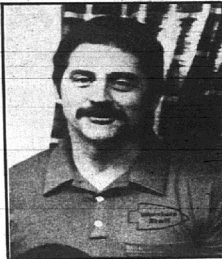

One factor making it tough is that only one of their SWC games is at home, and that one is Oct. 4 when East St. Louis, the No. 1 high school football team in the nation, comes calling.

Yates wasn't 100 percent set on a starting lineup for the Cahokia game before last Friday night's intra-squad scrimmage at Memorial Stadium, but he had a pretty good idea of who the candidates would be on offense.

Tim Hogan returns for his senior year at quarterback. Although one of the smaller quarterbacks around (5-9, 170), Tim is a competitor with the ability to come up with a big play.

"Tim has matured mentally a lot from last year," Yates said. "He's a tremendous competitor, and he can cause problems for the other team both throwing and running."

"My only concern with a quarterback that size is if he can last the whole year without getting beat up too much. But he's tough." Tim completed 43 of 100 passes last year for 645 yards and seven touchdowns. His favorite target, as usual, will be twin brother Jamie at split end. The two combined for 24 receptions in 1985 for 460 yards, an impressive 19.2 yards per catch. While Tim got an honorable mention on the All-SWC team, Jamie was first team, as he scored six touchdowns and was third in the area in receiving yardage.

Ron Yates

"Jamie had a fine year last season," Yates said. "But he wants to have a better one this year. He likes to catch the ball anywhere on the field. Of course, Tim looks for him a lot and they know each other well."

The transition in the backfield behind Tim Hogan is a major one, as the Warriors lost four running backs to graduation who combined for 1,227 yards on 231 carries and 10 touchdowns. That quartet of Dave Tatum, Pat Keeling, Ron Owens and Fred Becker will be missed, but Yates hopes to replace it with senior Dave Ramper at fullback, junior Terry Stanley at I-back and junior Kevin Sulphur at pro back.

"Lenny Whiteside will also be in the running at the I-back position," Yates said. "He has a punched nerve right now, but he would probably be the starter there if he were healthy."

Yates said the running backs as a unit don't have a great deal of speed, but he hopes that their good quickness and execution from the offensive line will produce a strong ground game.

"We've got to balance it out," Yates said of the offense. "We can't rely on the Hogs all the time in the passing game, and we can't overload with the running game. You have to have the offensive line working a respect for both to keep them off balance."

"Because of the lack of speed, we know we won't get to the sidelines much unless it's a surprise play. So we'll need to do well between the tackles. Steve Moutria will be the other back who figures to see a lot of action."

"A lot of juniors will play there," Yates said. "That should set us up for next year. Even at the beginning of the season, you have to be thinking a little about next year."

Todd Rhoades (5-9, 200) is the starting center for now. He earned a junior varsity certificate last year and hopes to make an impression on the varsity. "He's pretty tough and aggressive," Yates said. "He sure acts like he wants to play."

The starting guards are senior Tim Davis (6-0, 185) another of the quad-captains, and Paul Mallard (5-10, 170).

"Tim earned a letter last year," Yates said. "So we expect good things from him. He could be a force on the line. And I'm happy with Paul's progress. He's not real heavy, but he is quick."

The tackles will be Mike

Georgeff (6-3, 210) and Scott LeVault (5-10, 205).

"Mike has come along real well," Yates said. "He might play defense also. And Scott is a very intelligent player. The whole line is smart. Right now, they're a little better at run blocking because of the technique involved in pass blocking."

Other players who figure to see some time on the line include juniors Steve Stockman, Dan Klotfelder and Clint Payne.

Senior Eric Ryterski will step into the starting tight end spot, and Yates hopes he can take a little of the receiving pressure off Jamie Hogan, considering Jamie caught 24 of the team's 43 completions last season.

I hope he can be the type who can get 10-12 yards down the field and catch some passes," Yates said of the 6-3, 190-pound letterman. "He's not real fast, but he has those long arms and he is a good blocker."

Defensive coordinator Bob Stegemeier is looking to replace eight starters from last year's unit. Key contributors who will be missing are tackle Kevin Lilley, ends Steve Davis, Ed Goclan and Derrick Randall, linebackers Mike Fenoglio, Tom Schneke and Kip Simpson, and defensive backs Pat Griffith (52 tackles and four interceptions) and Dave Gushier, who had four interceptions in a 42-7 win over Collinsville.

The scrimmage Friday night will tell me a lot more about who will start," Stegemeier said Thursday. "It will be an important night for a lot of players."

Candidates at tackle include quad-captain John Kabbendjian, Charles Yarbber and LeVault. The ends will be Jon Morgan, Craig Dippel and Brian Dix. Tim Davis, Terry Stanley, Paul Millard and Mike Williams are all in the running for the two inside linebacker spots, while Georgeff, Ryterski and Greg Hagen are candidates outside.

"A lot of those positions are up for grabs," Stegemeier said. Jamie Hogan and Kevin Sulphur are pencilled in at cornerback, while Tim Hogan will see some action on defense this year at safety.

"We don't have a lot of experience back there," Stegemeier said. "Other people like Paul Suter, Dave Ramper, Steve Moutria and Vince Erzeze should help."

"We've got a lot of kids going both ways right now. You would like to be deep enough to go with 22 kids at starting spots. But at the same time, you need your best 11

'New' coach leads Warrior spikers

By Gary King
Correspondent

From the "new coach, new ideas" file comes Don Deterding, the new coach of the Granite City Warrior volleyball team.

Deterding succeeds Wilma Schulze, who guided the Warrior spikers for 13 seasons, compiling a career record of 173-132 prior to stepping down last December following a somewhat disappointing 10-17 campaign.

But sports history has proven that measuring a season in terms of wins and losses can be deceptive. And that's where Deterding's new ideas come into the picture.

"Our goal for the season is to win the conference, then the regional, then the sectional," said Deterding. "I'm not really concerned with how many we win or lose during the regular season, because that doesn't mean a whole heck of a lot come playoff time."

Being new to the volleyball scene, Deterding was forced to borrow examples of his new philosophy from the methods he's used in coaching the Warrior boys basketball team.

"It's like I tell my boys, you can win by 30 points and play poorly," he said. "On the other hand, you can lose a game even though you've played well. It just depends on the competition. And I think you have to play the toughest competition possible in order to be prepared for the post-season tournaments. The only thing that really matters is how much you learn, and how well you prepare yourself during the regular season."

And with that thought in mind, the Warriors will be attempting to overcome the loss of three starters from last season's squad — Betsy Barrington, Alicia Melfon and Bridgett Watson — during the regular season learning process.

But Deterding said he thinks the '86 Warrior version will be able to compensate for their lack of overall experience (only five lettermen return from last year) with hard work and good team depth.

"I think there's a lot of talent here," said Deterding. "This will be a fairly young team, but I've been really impressed with the way they've worked in practice so far. I've heard a little moaning team, but we will be the team in the best shape."

Deterding announced he is tentatively planning to field a starting lineup which will consist of two seniors and four juniors when the Warriors begin regular season play against East St. Louis this Friday.

Seniors Marla Toenisketter and Sandy Sternberg are currently slated to start at the outside hitter positions, while juniors Wendy Knollman and Beth Earney are pencilled in as starters at the inside hitter spots. Rounding out the starting lineup will be juniors Lisa Mills and Tammy LeVault, who will start at the setter and alternate hitter positions, respectively.

Deterding also said seniors Tammy Wroten and Michelle Jones figure to see a great deal of action off the Warrior bench.

Although he's admittedly unfamiliar with the caliber of the competition his squad will be facing this season, Deterding realized his spikers will have their work cut out this season if they hope to obtain an unprecedented SWC crown.

"I'm not really all that familiar with the teams in our conference, but I know the Belleville schools (East, West and Althoff) are always tough," said Deterding. "But I'm a big Southwestern Conference booster. I've played in it (Deterding was an All-State basketball player for Collinsville in 1982). I've coached in it, and I'm proud of it. Consequently, winning the conference championship has always been a goal of mine. And if we can't win it, I at least want us to finish as high as we can."

"I just want us to play hard and make as few mental mistakes as possible. I might be happy with five wins, or it might take 20 wins. We'll just have to see."

Don Deterding

Don Deterding gets brand new challenge

By Gary King
Correspondent

If anyone knows Memorial Gymnasium, Don Deterding does. For he's spent his last 29 winters pacing the sidelines of the edifice as the head coach of the Warrior basketball team.

If anyone knows what it takes to win, Don Deterding does. For during his tenure as a basketball coach, "Dean Don" has compiled a career coaching mark of 376-293, including a 22-4 record and a Southwestern Conference championship last season.

And if there was ever a man who thrived on a challenge, it would have to be Don Deterding.

So when Wilma Schulze, who guided the Warrior volleyball team for 13 seasons and posted a career coaching record of 173-132, resigned last Dec. 17, the groundwork was laid for what many figures to be Deterding's greatest challenge yet.

Ask Deterding to sketch a blueprint of Memorial Gymnasium, and he probably wouldn't miss the mark by more than a pillar or two. Hand him a whistle and a basketball, and he'll hand you a winning season.

But instead, Deterding's been handed a volleyball program that has suffered through some disappointing seasons, the past few years. And as if asking him to improve the plight of the Warrior spikers this season didn't present enough of a challenge, the new coach on the block admits that he's basically unfamiliar with his new surroundings.

"This has been one of the most frustrating things I've ever done in my life," said Deterding. "That's because I know everything, but by no means everything about this sport."

"After coaching basketball for 29 years, when I see a kid doing something wrong, I can tell him how to correct it. I mean, if you can't spot mistakes after that many years, then you'll never be able to. But this (volleyball)...this

Trojans hope to rebuild

By Gary King
Correspondent

It would be easy for Madison soccer coach Gene Briggs to lament the loss of 12 players from last year's Trojan squad. But he isn't.

No, Briggs isn't crying into his towel, beckoning for a return to the days of last fall when his team was laden with experienced seniors in key positions.

Rather, the ninth-year Madison coach is looking ahead with optimism to what figures to be a challenging season. And the reason for Briggs' elation stems from two virtues — youth and hunger — he's observed in his team during their pre-season practices.

"It's true that we will be a young squad, but the kids have shown real good enthusiasm so far," said Briggs. "Their attendance at practice has been good, and they've worked hard."

"We had about 25 kids come out at the start of practices, and we've had at least 20 at every practice so far. Anytime kids will leave their air-conditioned homes to come out and practice soccer in 90-degree heat that shows me that they are wanting to learn. And I like that enthusiasm."

But nonetheless, the loss of the players from last year's senior-dominated squad has left the Trojans with a glaring depth problem this year. And according to the Trojan coach, his kickers will have to work hard in order to compensate for their weakness in that area.

"Last year's group was probably one of the best I've ever worked with," Briggs said. "They were a hard working bunch of guys. And you can't expect to lose vital links like they were, then just instantly replace them. The guys we have will just have to keep working hard and plugging away at it."

"We're shallow in depth; however, we've got a good, prod front line that should be able to score some goals for us this season. But a soccer game is an hour and 20 minutes long, and you can't realistically expect 11 guys to play the whole time. You have to have that team depth."

Once again, the Trojans will field a team heavy with seniors — eight in all — most of which saw limited varsity action last season. The team will also consist of four juniors, three of which started on the junior varsity level.

Although he hasn't yet established a starting lineup, Briggs said he has tentatively pencilled in senior Duane Rodgers as the Trojan's starting goalie. Rodgers will be filling the gap left by the graduation of four-year starting keeper Patrick Glasper, who received a scholarship to play soccer for Sauk Valley Junior College this fall.

Briggs also said seniors Rovvy Clayton and Bryan Dohal, along with junior Neal Huniak, are currently vying for starting berths at the forward positions, while seniors Sean Mosby, Steve Romanic and Avery Ware, joined by juniors Clarence Williams and Brandon Fletcher, are battling for starting spots at the halfback positions.

Filling the fullback slots will be either seniors Shawn Coleman and Eric Ingram, or junior Jeff Beard. Briggs also said he is expecting sophomores Tony Manridge and Terry Jackson, along with freshmen Steve Manridge and Mondo Martinez, to see a considerable amount of playing time off the Trojan bench this year.

As far as goals go, Briggs is just hoping his young squad can better last year's 2-16 mark and continue the momentum that was established when Madison put up a valiant effort against Southwestern Conference champions Granite City, prior to falling 4-0 in last year's regional.

"Our main goal is to better last year's record and put our best team on the field," said Briggs. "We've lost a lot of games 1-0, 2-1 and 3-2 over the past few years. It just seems like we've always had a hard time getting over the hump. Hopefully, we'll get over it this year."

And you can bet Briggs wouldn't lament over that, either.

Stars seek respect in new conference

By Dave Whaley
Staff writer

GRANITE CITY — Trying to shake the image of a 500 team is not as important as doing well in the postseason.

Or so says Larry Petri, head soccer coach at Granite City Campus. Petri begins his fourth year at GCC as the only coach to be at the campus since it opened for business in the fall of 1983.

The Stars were 10-10-2 last year, and fell to Lewis and Clark Community College of Godfrey in the finals of the Region 24 JUCO Soccer Tournament.

"I've stated three goals to the players for what I want to do this year," Petri said. "First, I want to finish in the top three in our conference. Second, I want to end up the No. 1 team in our region. And third, I want to go to the national finals."

"All of that is very possible. But if we don't make those goals, it won't have to mean it's a disastrous year. But if we have a good regular season record and then don't do well in the postseason, that's disappointing."

Postseason play, Petri said, is what helps players advance to greener pastures.

"The opportunity to advance to a four-year school with a good program is much better if you get some exposure in the playoffs," he said. "You get more notoriety that way. You can look at Lewis and Clark as an example. Of course, you have to have good players to carry you that far in the playoffs."

To that end, Petri has been working out approximately 20 players since practice began Aug. 4, although that number has fluctuated a great deal.

"We started with about 18-19 players," Petri said. "Some of them had job obligations and other things, so our numbers went down. But they're back up again. I hope we can go into the season with around 18 players."

Petri, who has a 29-29-2 record in his three years, said he hasn't yet settled on a definite starting lineup for the season opener Sept. 5 at Kishwaukee.

"I think all of them might start at some time," he said. "We lost four sophomores from last year and some others to eligibility problems. But some of our guys that came back saw playing time last year."

Sophomore Chris Sondker will likely get the nod in goal when the season starts, although Petri hopes Bob Barker, a transfer from McKendree College, will eventually challenge for that spot. Barker suffered a dislocated shoulder on the first day of practice, Petri said. Barker could be ready to go by Sept. 13, when the Stars play their home opener against East Central. Jerry Lakin of Granite City is the other candidate for goalkeeper.

In the backfield, Petri has Wes Borden of Cahokia at sweeper back and Marty Rocco at stopper back, with Pat Phillips, Daryl Fraunfelder and Lakin at the wingbacks.

"I think this will be one of our strong points," Petri said. "They haven't all played together yet, but they're getting there. We switched Borden from a forward spot, and he has the qualities to be a good player back there. And Rocco is one of the strongest players on the team."

George Lauria will center the midfielders, with Matt Casserly, Todd Jones and Darryl Schilling on the wings.

"That position could be troublesome for us," Petri said. "Matt is the only one of those players who is returning from last year. We need to make some adjustments there. But the nucleus is pretty good. They have some potential."

The front line will be composed of Rob Fafoglia, David Lauer, John Finnan and Sean Fronabarger, with Craig Coffelt in the middle. Fronabarger and Coffelt are freshmen, while Lauer is the only other one to play up front last season.

"Rob was a fullback last year, but we think we can utilize his speed up front," Petri said. "And Finnan was a midfielder. But Coffelt is the one we're hoping can get some goals for us. He places the ball very well. He doesn't have a terrific shot, but he can find the net. We're trying to get the rhythm going offensively. If we can go out and average two goals a game, we think we can do well."

This is the Stars' first year as a full-fledged member of the Midwestern Community College Athletic Conference, which includes Lewis and Clark, Florissant Valley, Forest Park, Meramec and East Central in soccer. Belleville Area College, Jefferson, Mineral Area and Three Rivers are also members.

"It's tough," Petri said. "All the teams are good. Meramec is probably the best, but we always seem to play them tough. I wouldn't think we would be No. 1, but we should be in the middle of the pack or even challenging for the top spot."

"The other teams know who we are, but maybe they will overlook us again and we can come away with some wins."

players on the field at one time, both offensively and defensively. "We can't afford any injuries on defense, that's for sure. We'll be discipline out there. We don't have any one outstanding player who can free-lance. And as the year goes on, we'll probably do some blitzing and other things."

Yates has put Tim Hogan into the extra point job, with Kory Burton and Jimmy Parker still battling for the field goal job. Jamie Hogan and Terry Stanley will be the punters, with Hogan No. 1 to start the year.

"His distance and hang time are pretty good," Yates said. "We're still working on consistency."

Netters led by freshman

By Liz Stark
Correspondent

The Granite City girls tennis team has a whole new outlook for this fall season, starting off with a new coach, Gary Morgan will replace Dick Harmon.

After their 7-7 record in 1985 and despite losing Marcia Williams, their only player to reach state competition last year, the Warriors are still strong, with their leading player a freshman, Keri Weckham is promising to be the one player to be strong in singles. Their strongest team on the doubles court will be Meghan Lombardi and Jamie Siebert. "Meghan is the best in the doubles without a doubt," Morgan said. But he is worried about Weckham because she is a freshman and may not be able to handle the top seniors in her division.

Gary Morgan

Tuesday against Triad, and then they will meet Edwardsville on the road on Friday at 4 p.m. The Highland Tournament will be Saturday.

"I'm not too worried about the first couple of matches," Morgan said. "It will give the girls the experience and the know-how that they need to learn for some of the tougher matches."

The returning lettermen are Meghan Lombardi, Jamie Siebert, Julie Gabriel and Kris Williams.

Soccer camp registration Sept. 8-9

Registration for the Instructional Development Soccer Program, which is sponsored by the Busch Soccer Club, will be held on Monday and Tuesday, Sept. 8-9, from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. at the St. Louis Soccer Park.

The program is available to players 8 and 9 years old, and will consist of 16 sessions, all of which will be held on Monday and Wednesday nights (Sept. 15 through Nov. 5), from 4 p.m. to 5:30 p.m. The fee is $40 per player.

Fran Van Balkom, director of coaching for the Busch Soccer Club, will be directing the sessions. The program will help to develop the correct skills and techniques in all facets of the game (shooting, trapping, passing, heading and dribbling). Sportsmanship, aggressiveness and creativity are additional areas which will be included in the program.

For further information, contact Mary Dempster at 314-982-1758 or Bob Brunette at 314-343-5347.

● Deterding

is new to me. I'll see a girl doing something wrong, but I just can't exactly place my finger on it right away. There have been a few times when I've even had to go home and think it over at night. It just has frustrated me to not be able to correct mistakes as soon as I see them."

Deterding admits that he's gathered most of his knowledge about volleyball from watching two of his daughters, Robin and Dawn, who each starred in the sport, both on the high school and collegiate levels.

In fact, Deterding went so far as to confess that he's already called on daughter Robin, who helped lead the Warriors to their only berth in the state finals in 1976 prior to becoming an assistant coach at SIU-C, for a little advice.

"I had Robin come out to one of our practices a couple days ago so she could tell me what I was doing wrong," Deterding said. "And, by golly, she did exactly that. Seriously though, they've both me out, and I'm sure I'll be able to use all of the help they can give me. This will primarily be a learning year for me and the team. But I think after I get a little experience under my belt, I'll be O.K."

Don Deterding has been given a new set of blueprints. Now, it's off to the drawing board.

Breakfast can be the most important meal of the day

Breakfast, the meal that "breaks the fast" from the evening before, often is called the most important meal of the day.

It means different things to different people. Some people skip breakfast altogether, while others overindulge with a two or three-course meal. One's attitude toward breakfast often reflects one's attitude toward life as the day begins amid tasks to be accomplished.

Breakfast foods are excellent sources of important nutrients. Therefore, it is advisable that something be eaten in the morning, after the long night's fast. Start with fruit or fruit juice. It is low in calories, yet high in vitamins and minerals. Good choices include oranges, grapefruit, peaches, plums and melons.

Most breakfast cereals, except the granola variety, are low in fat and rich in nutrients. Be aware that sugar contents vary widely. Generally, if sugar is listed among the first three ingredients, the cereal is high in sugar.

Granola-type cereals often have three times as many calories per cup as plain cereals. Many are made with coconut oil, palm oil or other highly saturated fats. Plain cereal topped with skim milk and fresh fruit make up a very good low-calorie, low-fat breakfast, especially when breakfast needs to take little time, too. If there is an intolerance to milk, try topping cereal with orange juice.

Traditional breakfasts often include eggs either as a main course or as an important ingredient. One egg yolk contains about 250 milligrams of cholesterol. Since the American Heart Association recommends limiting cholesterol intake to less than 300 milligrams per day, it is best to restrict egg yolk intake to two or less per week.

On the other hand, egg whites or egg substitutes can be used rather freely due to their low cholesterol and saturated fat content. Egg whites are less expensive than egg substitutes, and thus should be used in such foods as waffles or hotcakes, when a yellow coloring is not needed.

Roaster-ready or microwave breakfast entrees should be selected carefully and seldom used. Many are loaded with saturated fats and cholesterol.

Wheat pancakes

1 cup flour
2 tsp. baking powder
1 tsp. sugar
1/2 cup wheat germ toasted with honey

1 1/2 cups skim milk
2 tbsp. oil
1/2 cup low-fat cottage cheese

Sift together flour, baking powder and sugar. Add wheat germ.

Combine milk and oil. Stir into dry ingredients until just moistened.

Stir in cottage cheese only until mixture is slightly lumpy. If a smooth batter is desired, whip cottage cheese with the liquid ingredients in blender.

Drop batter by spoonfuls onto greased pan. Cook until bubbles appear on upper surface, then turn and brown on the other side. Turn only once. Continue until all batter is used.

Serve with maple syrup, fresh fruit or applesauce.

Yields 10 (4-inch) pancakes. Each pancake provides about 110 calories, 3.4 gm. fat, 95 mg. sodium and 1 mg. cholesterol.

Many attraction at home, energy show

The 1986 Home, Remodeling and Energy Show is scheduled Sept. 10 through 14 at Cervantes Convention Center.

The two-half show sponsored by the Home Builders Association will be brimming with products and services related to the home. There will be more than 400 booths.

A new attraction this year will feature works by artisans from Silver Dollar City. This "show within a show" will include many handmade, one-of-kind decorating items in more than 62 booths.

Everything from handmade antique lace to copper fountains will be at this exhibit, titled "Gateway to Yesterday."

In the Manufactured Housing area, show visitors may tour three all-electric homes containing numerous amenities for luxurious, comfortable living.

A Gallery of Room additions, built on-site by Heritage Homes, will feature three completely landscaped and furnished rooms constructed as Andersen Concept TV surprises.

Audience participation is the key to the Second Annual Handcrafted Furniture Show and Competition, a home show attraction showcasing works by St. Louis area woodworkers. Show visitors will be invited to vote for their favorite entry. Winners will be the "people's choice."

Those who enjoy swimming will be interested in the Wideman Pools exhibit. Wideman will display an in-ground pool, complete with swimmers, and show how adding an air-supported dome can extend the water fun season through the coldest winter weather.

Representatives from every major brand of energy-saving heating system available in the St. Louis marketplace will be on hand to answer questions about everything from insulation to fireplace additions.

Central Hardware show combines experts, ideas

Alan Purvis can't help getting a little excited when talking about Central Hardware's 12th annual Learn to Tinker/Do-It-Yourself Show at the Cervantes Convention Center in downtown St. Louis this weekend.

"This is a big show for us," says Purvis, vice president in charge of sales promotions for Central Hardware.

Prospective remodelers shouldn't miss the event, he says, because between 40 and 50 orange-coated experts will be routing the floor and nearly 400 workers will be on hand to answer questions from visitors.

"There is no pressure to purchase or make any kind of building commitment," he says. "We have experts to solve problems, give advice and offer solutions. If a problem can't be solved, we can find the answer no more than two aisles away."

The show runs from Sept. 5 to Sept. 7. It is free and open to the public from noon to 9 p.m. on Friday; 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. on Saturday; and 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. on Sunday.

The show offers more than 300 demonstrations by factory experts on everything from installing insulation in the attic to wiring electric fans.

The highlight of the show will be an appearance by Norm Abram, the master carpenter who teams with host Bob Vila to renovate old houses on This Old House, a public television show that airs locally on KETC-TV at 6:30 p.m. on Saturdays.

Abram and a group of experts from Central Hardware will be on hand to answer questions about the show's featured exhibit, a single-story, cut-away home. The 230-foot structure features several rooms, a sturdy do-it-yourself deck and a full-size garage door with an electric opener.

Partially exposed floors and ceilings allow visitors a first-hand look at the proper methods for completing home wiring, lighting, plumbing, flooring, and insulation projects.

Other experts who will be on hand include:

- Beverly de Julio, better known as Mrs. Fix-It, who will demonstrate shortcuts and tips on a variety of home repairs.
- Automotive expert Howard Kenig, who will offer free advice on automobile repair and care.
- Ray Johnson, a reformed house burglar, and member of the St. Louis Crime Prevention Council, who will give first-hand tips and written information on how to make any home safer.

There also will be entertainment for children, including appearances by Fredbird, clowns, jugglers, the Lift-Off Magician, the Owens-Corning Pink Panther, Gunther Corbin, Warner Ladders, the McCulloch Beaver and the Frost King snowman.

Several surprise sports celebrities are slated to sign autographs and entertain at the show and thousands of dollars in merchandise will be given away during its three-day run.

Nearly 40,000 St. Louisans are expected to attend the show, where the newest materials and latest techniques will be shown by manufacturers' representatives at the various booths.

This year's show also will include a special Humane Society of Missouri booth where helpful information will be distributed on pet care and animal adoption.

The YMCA of Greater St. Louis will provide, free blood pressure and body fat screening for visitors.

Housing activity partly offset

Housing construction, coupled with increased retail sales, helped offset somewhat the loss of 30,000 manufacturing jobs in Illinois during fiscal 1986.

Manufacturing jobs fell from 990,000 in June 1985 to 960,000 in June 1986, a decrease of 3 percent. The number of Illinois workers in manufacturing jobs has decreased from 1.3 million to 960,000 since June 1979.

On the other hand, 40,900 housing permits were issued in Illinois in fiscal 1986, 46.1 percent more than in the previous year.

Retail sales showed a gain in the first 11 months of 1985-86 with sales of $38.2 billion, which were $2.6 billion (4.2 percent) greater than comparable fiscal 1985 levels.

A dramatic increase in consumer purchases of foreign imports was a chief reason for increased buying did not result in an increase in manufacturing employment in the state.

Getting up late is worth only half the time spent in bed, unless of course you're getting up to a brunch. That makes sleeping late on a holiday perfect.

Take the work out of Labor Day weekend by enjoying one - at home. It's not that hard to do. Klaus Von Ritter, executive chef at the St. Louis Airport Marriott, prepares a brunch every weekend that would make most diners blush. From the mountain of fresh fruit, over the ice carving, through duck à l'orange, foie gras and bagels, Belgian waffles and eggs Benedict, on to a sideboard boasting ornate Viennese sweets, the brunch caters to every dream the late-sleeper might have had.

"Brunch is a combination breakfast and lunch. People eat heavier foods later in the day, although some stick to one type," he says.

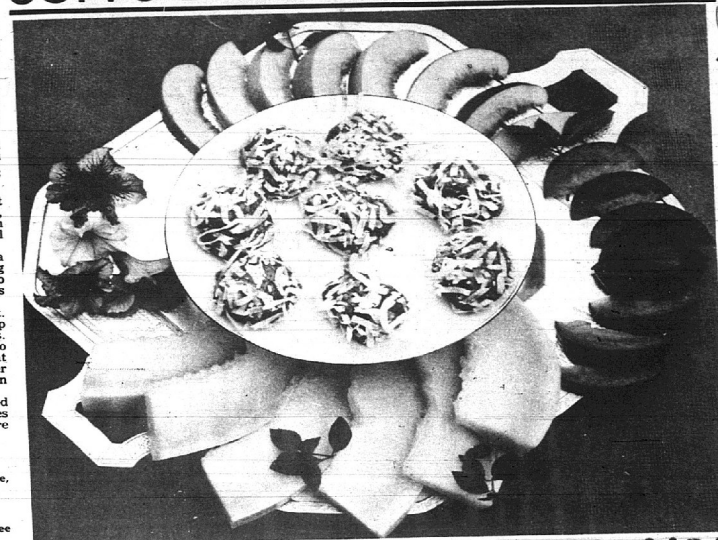

He realizes that a brunch at home may not have the view, cooking utensils or staff, but it can be just as interesting, flavorful and attractive.

"Use freshness. We are in a society where people are watching their weight. It is not necessary to use so much butter and have foods swim in it," he says.

Include colorful fresh fruit. Squeeze fresh orange juice. Keep it simple with eggs or waffles. Include no more than one or two heavier items. For a brunch that leans toward the noon hour, offer simple cold cuts so people can make sandwiches.

At the restaurant scrambled eggs are prepared in half-batches so they can be replaced before

Bali Hai Fruit Dip

- 1 ripe fresh pineapple
- 2 pkg. (8 oz. each) cream cheese, softened
- 1/2 cup chutney, preferably mango
- 1 tsp. curry powder
- 4 tsp. Dijon mustard
- 1 cup flaked coconut, toasted (See Note)
- Sliced fresh fruit

Cut pineapple in half lengthwise. Loosen insides of both halves with grapefruit knife and remove fruit, leaving the shells. Save one shell and turn upside down to drain.

Finely chop enough pineapple to make 1/2 cup. Cut remaining pineapple into 1-inch pieces. Combine chopped pineapple with cream cheese, chutney, curry powder and mustard.

Spoon into drained pineapple shell and sprinkle with toasted coconut. Surround pineapple shell with pineapple and other fresh fruit for dipping.

Makes 12 to 16 servings.
Note: To toast coconut, spread in shallow pan. Bake at 325° for 10 to 15 minutes, stirring once or twice.

Hint: For quicker version, omit fresh pineapple. Instead, use 1/2 cup drained crushed pineapple and serve dip in small bowl.

They harden into firm curls and become watery. At home eggs can be prepared as needed and kept warm in a chafing dish or on a heating plate. Von Ritter suggests offering condiments on the side, for a change, to please guests' preferences. Otherwise, cheese, ham and bacon are all standby additions to give eggs variety.

One popular version of an egg dish easy for a brunch is a modern Denver Sandwich. This includes ham and chives, beaten into scrambled eggs, then served on toast.

For a Mexican accent pour 1 cup canned tomato sauce with onions in a round pie pan. Sprinkle a bit of chili powder over the sauce. Break 6 eggs onto the sauce, spacing them evenly, without stirring. Sprinkle the tops with salt and pepper. Bake at 350° for 25 to 30 minutes, or until eggs are done as desired. Serve on tortilla chips, sprinkle top with shredded cheddar cheese and spoon on some sauce.

Breads can be homemade or bought. One bright addition to corn muffins would be a selection of fruit preserves and butters. To make a butter, simply whip it until fluffy and add as much as an even amount of marmalade or jam. Almonds, walnuts and spices mix equally well.

Looking at Von Ritter's brunch buffet is as entertaining as eating it. He lived for a while in Hawaii, so insists on using flowers, as well as food, in fresh ways. One time it may be an edible flower, another time a bouquet formed by cauliflower and gladioli.

"Don't overdo it. Just petite. Instead of buying a dozen roses, just buy one rose. It will overwhelm in its elegance," he says.

Cheddar shortbread

- 1 1/2 cups flour
- 1/2 tsp. paprika
- 1/2 tsp. salt
- 1/2 tsp. dry mustard
- 1/2 cup butter
- 2 cups (8 oz.) shredded cheddar cheese at room temperature
- 1/2 cup finely chopped nuts
- Honeydew melon slices, if desired
- Prosciutto slices, if desired

In mixing bowl, combine flour, paprika, salt and mustard. Gradually add cheese, beating until well blended. Gradually beat in the flour mixture.

Place dough on lightly buttered cookie sheet. Roll into 12-by-7 inch rectangle. Cut into 1-by-2 inch rectangles. Dough also may be pressed through cookie press into desired shapes onto buttered cookie sheet. Sprinkle on nuts.

Bake cookies for 12 to 15 minutes at 400°. Recut. Remove to wire racks to cool.

Serve with slices of melon wrapped with prosciutto, if desired.

Yields about 42.

He suggests trying bits of fruit that offset each other's color on a plate of eggs. All it takes is three sections of an orange arranged in the shape of a fan with a single raspberry or half of a strawberry.

For an economical, sophisticated entree, try Spinach Mornay Roulade. An airy, egg-rich sponge roll encircles a savory spinach filling. A sauce rich and creamy with Swiss cheese adds a crowning touch.

Antipasto ingredients work well on a brunch table. For a hearty appetizer offer cheddar shortbread with prosciutto wrapped around slices of melon.

A fruity, light dip will enhance fresh fruit served whole or sliced. Here Bali Hai is only a dip away with a cream-cheese smoothie sweetened by pineapple and curry powder hinting behind the back of Dijon mustard.

Cocktails may be served, but a pitcher of tequila sunrise may not be appreciated until later brunch hours. In any case, Mock Margarita Punch may serve a welcome purpose with no alcohol, but the flavors of the classic drink.

Strata can be made the night before and refrigerated until baking time to help keep the cook in bed as long as possible. Here Eggs Casserole is typical. The bacon may be replaced by cooked sausage, chicken, ham or turkey.

Crabmeat or sautéed mushrooms. Just make certain the center is set when it comes out of the oven.

Dessert may be optional. Sweet breads or coffee cakes are welcome, as are a few cookies, like Summer Snowballs, that are less sugary.

Mock margarita

- 1 (12 oz.) can frozen lemonade concentrate, thawed
- 1 (12 oz.) can frozen limeade concentrate, thawed
- 1 cup confectioner's sugar
- 4 egg whites
- 6 cups crushed ice
- 1 liter (about 4 cups) club soda
- Time slices
- Coarse salt

In 4-quart non-metal container, combine lemonade, limeade, sugar, egg whites and crushed ice. Mix well. Cover and freeze, stirring occasionally.

Remove, thawed from freezer 30 minutes before serving.

Spoon 2 cups slush mixture into blender. Add 1 cup club soda. Blend until frothy.

To serve, rub rim of glass with lime slice and dip rim in coarse salt. Fill glass. Garnish with lime slices.

Makes 24 servings.

Summer snowball

- 1 box (7 1/2 oz.) vanilla wafers, crushed
- 1/2 cup chopped walnuts
- 1/2 cup butter or margarine
- 1/2 cup confectioner's sugar
- 1/2 cup frozen orange juice concentrate, thawed
- 2 cups shredded coconut

Combine crushed wafers and chopped walnuts in large bowl. Set aside.

In small saucepan, combine butter, sugar and orange juice. Cook over low heat until butter melts. Add butter mixture to crushed wafers. Stir until combined.

Form mixture into 1-inch balls. Roll in coconut. Refrigerate or serve at room temperature.

Omelettes

"An egg is an egg, but how you present the egg to the guests is what they will remember," says Klaus Von Ritter, executive chef at the St. Louis Airport Marriott.

A fresh egg has a well-colored yolk that stays in the middle of the white when it goes into a heated pan.

To make an omelette, he uses three eggs, beaten with a whisk to incorporate air, in heated butter. There should be no extra milk or water or the eggs will not adhere and the dish will become watery.

Heat the eggs, moving them around enough to create moist curds and letting the liquid portion heat as the cooked portion is lifted.

At home he likes to put the eggs when they are almost finished under the broiler to let them puff. Additional flavors can be added, like bacon and sausage, or cheese can be sprinkled on top, but he warns against using too many ingredients so that the eggs do not have a chance to rise.

This dish can be turned into a "pizza" with traditional flavors and designs complementing the eggs.

Fine hash browns also can top the eggs. Anything that can be served as a side dish will become a surprise ingredient in an omelette.

Cruise News

Norwegian Caribbean Lines has signed a contract with the Wärtsilä shipyard in Turku, Finland to begin construction of a 40,000-ton cruise ship to be delivered in May 1988.

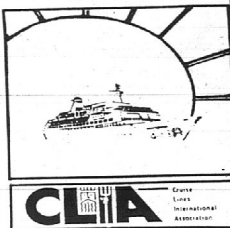

It is anticipated that the vessel will be positioned in the Caribbean.

The new ship will cost approximately $120 million. The 95-foot vessel will carry a maximum of 1,900 passengers. The vessel will measure 95 feet in length.

The ship will have 10 passenger decks and house 826 cabins, 54 with sea views.

State-of-the-art facilities will include a complete health spa, full range of recreational facilities, two over-sized swimming pools, full casino, boutiques and numerous lounges and restaurants.

There will be two main show lounges which will be fully equipped for large scale productions, while smaller lounges will offer a variety of more intimate entertainment.

Norwegian Caribbean Lines currently operates five ships on three-, four-, and seven-day Caribbean cruises.

Princess for cruise

Not long ago, the Ocean Princess cut through western Caribbean waters from Montego Bay to Grand Cayman. But rough waters and strong trade winds made the line change the ship's Caribbean route.

Now the Ocean Princess sails from San Juan and cruises through the Leeward Islands and the Grenadines. Calls are made at Antigua, Martinique, Grenada, La Guaira, Curacao and St. Thomas. Six ports in six days is an aggressive schedule and could be a tiring one for those who are enthusiastic about shore excursions and shopping.

The Ocean Princess is more like a huge luxury yacht than a cruise ship but her intimacy makes for a relaxed week.

With first-class comfort in mind, the ship's interior features thick, rich carpeting, large picture windows and neat, clean lines in its furnishings. Cabins are spacious and colorful with individually-controlled air conditioning, ample closet space, full vanities, music consoles and telephones.

The usual onboard activities are here. There are several bars, the Monte Carlo Casino, restaurants and a disco.

The dining room menu did not disappoint travelers, offering items ranging from shrimp cocktail or escargot to fresh pasta or lobster bisque. Sample the Beef Wellington, veal piccata, Baked Alaska and chocolate mousse. Meals were well rounded and better prepared than we've had on other cruises.

For a brochure with details on Ocean Princess cruises, write to Ocean Cruise Lines, Two Executive Dr., Fort Lee, N.J. 07024.

Moe than just VanZant's career in surgeon's hands

The severity of the injury to Tony VanZant's left knee carries many implications.

The football career for the Hazelwood Central all-American hangs in the balance as does the future of the Missouri Lions' Club All-Star Game, and to some degree the immediate prospects for the Missouri Tigers' football program.

His name has become a household word. His moves on the field make front page news.

The future of this young promising back now belongs to the surgeons at the Columbia Regional Hospital in Columbia, Mo. In all likelihood, VanZant soon will undergo reconstructive knee surgery to repair ligament damage—the same operation that has helped careers of Seattle's Curt Warner and Chicago's legendary Gale Sayers.

Perhaps the most difficult injury to heal may be that to the image of the all-star game.

It was as if a time bomb was ticking away—waiting to go off. There have been other injuries to athletes associated with the game, but none carried the reputation of TVZ.

Now, when the phone rings with an invitation to play, there is hesitation on the other end of the line. Why should a star athlete, with nothing in particular to prove, put his career in harm's way for a charity game where the score hardly matters?

Raising money for the Lion's Eye Tissue Bank is a noble gesture, but money can be raised at carnivals or through the sale of raffle tickets.

Unfortunately the all-star game has never been a total success since it started a decade ago. The best of the West all-stars rarely show up.

This year alone, three Missouri signees from the West Larry Linthacum of Bethany, Ron Walters of Blue Springs and Sean Sadler from Joplin—passed up the event. The east stars lead in the series 7-2-1.

Look for the defectors list to be much more significant next year.

Thurman VanZant, Tony's father, was opposed to his son's participation. Missouri coach Woody Widenhofer is upset, too. A ringing endorsement of the game won't be coming from his office.

Interestingly, stringent and non-sensical NCAA rules prohibited Widenhofer and his staff even from attending the game. The game in July falls during a period when active recruiting is prohibited. Hence, Missouri coaches had to stay home.

Missouri's recruiting coordinator Steve Miller said he got the news of the injury while watching the 10 o'clock news.

Hazelwood Central Coach John Hofferfeld was saddened by the of competitor," said Hofferfeld. "Everybody feels bad, but no one feels worse than the guy slated to wear the No. 5 black and gold jersey."

Missouri coaches are shell-shocked. After a 1-10 season, they were pinning some hopes on the talents of this newcomer.

The official Missouri line says VanZant was only going to be used as a kick return specialist. But...who can forget when freshman Herschel Walker came off the bench in the opener against Tennessee, rushed for 183 yards and Georgia was never headed before winning a national championship in the Sugar Bowl.

Somehow, it seems likely VanZant would have found his way into the Tigers' starting lineup in 1986. But not now.

If surgery and rehabilitation work, as planned, VanZant will redshirt and have four full years of eligibility left. At least the injury gives the star running back a chance to get ahead on his studies.

The first time VanZant touched the ball on the Hazelwood Central varsity was in the last game of his freshman year. He sailed 65 yards to the end zone against Hazelwood East. He hardly ever missed a down through the next three seasons.

This fall, he will be in a leg wrap and plaster from hip to ankle, cheering the Missouri Tigers from the sidelines.

He may be down now, but Hofferfeld knows that won't last long. "You haven't heard the last of Tony VanZant yet," he said.

Swim for Heart

A TROPHY IS PRESENTED to Wilson Pool manager Bruce Holt by Kathy Lohr, field director for the American Heart Association office in Edwardsville. The local pool lifeguards participated in a Swim for Heart competition of life-saving skills at Wilson Park and collected more than $300 in pledges. The money will be used for research and education. Those winning prizes, including T-shirts, visors and beach towels, were Paula Bills, Karie Frazier, Dwayne Hall, Anne Puhse, Michelle Zelenka and Holt.

Business groups will tour Smith car cradle plant

A "business after hours" reception of the St. Louis Regional Commerce and Growth Association is scheduled from 5:30 to 7:30 p.m. Tuesday, Sept. 9, at the A.O. Smith Automotive Products Co. in Granite City.

Cosponsors of the informal event are the Tri-Cities Area Chamber of Commerce and the Leadership Council, Southwestern Illinois. Admission is free with a business card. Refreshments will be served.

The A.O. Smith Granite City facility was closed in 1980 due to the phase-out of full auto and truck frames and was reopened and refurbished for production of auto frame chutes. Today, the plant is considered a model of high technology employing 43 robots, an automated hydraulic piercing line, automated subassembly arc welding processes and multi-camera inspection systems.

Tours of the modern facility are planned during the "after hours" reception.

The reception is an opportunity for business men and women to meet new clients and customers and to promote their companies. RCMA and Chamber members are being encouraged to bring guests. The chamber can be called at 876-6100 to make reservations.

'Heroes' is uplifting tale of Vietnam vets

Henry Winkler and Sally Field star in the off-beat romantic comedy Heroes (1986), but this month from MCA Home Video, Winkler, in his first starring role, plays a troubled Vietnam veteran who heads across the country searching for his old combat buddies to start a "worm" farm.

Along the way he runs into Field, who is running away from marriage and an old boyfriend. Harrison Ford stars in Witness (1985), but this month from MCA Home Video, Winkler, in his first starring role, plays a troubled Vietnam veteran who heads across the country searching for his old combat buddies to start a "worm" farm.

Director Jeremy Paul Kagan manages to make this an uplifting tale, with many touches of simple humor. PG. Color. 97 min. VHS/Beta HiFi.

Kevin Bacon (Diner 1982) plays a hot-shot options trader in Quick Silver (1986), out this week from RCA/Columbia Home Video.

In a rather far-fetched plot, Bacon is a know-it-all who loses everything, including his parent's life-savings in the market.

He comes alive again as a fast-wheeling member of the bank messenger corp in gritty Manhattan. Throw in some drug-dealing, super cycling scenes, a little romance (Jami Gertz) and a heavy-duty rock score and you have the perfect formula to entertain the teen set. PG (language, violence). Color. 100 min. VHS/Beta HiFi Stereo.

Natural Park (1983). The Tree Surgeon (1984) features the zany Doctor D trying to save an ailing redwood; and two lovable canines find their first trip to the outdoors in The Pup's Picnic (1986). Color. 33 min. VHS/Beta HiFi.

Founding Father hardly recognized

By Dr. Richard Morris

Circumstances have conspired to keep John Jay out of the spotlight, which has played on the other central figures in the founding of the nation. He was not a signer of the Declaration nor of the Constitution. He never became president. Yet no one in the history of the nation who has not held the presidency distinguished himself in as many different state and federal offices as Jay.

The only Founding Father to have two major international treaties to his credit, Jay filled with distinction his posts as diplomat, administrator and jurist.

Born in New York City in 1745 of French Huguenot ancestry, Jay abandoned a promising career as a lawyer to enter politics on the eve of the American Revolution.

Although considered a moderate patriot, he ran a successful spy ring in New York which infiltrated the British lines, headed a committee to round up Tories and then served as draftsman of New York's first constitution, an instrument which provided one of the chief models for the federal Constitution a decade later.

After service as the state's first chief justice, he was elected president of the Continental Congress in 1778, and the following year was dispatched to Spain as America's unaccredited minister.

Named by Congress as a peace commissioner, Jay joined Franklin and John Adams in Paris. Largely on his own and behind the backs of the French ministry, whom he mistrusted, Jay acted as principal in negotiating the victorious peace with Great Britain in 1783, a peace by which the United States gained its independence and a broad stretch of territory from the Atlantic to the Mississippi.

On his triumphant return to America in July 1784 Jay learned Congress had named him secretary for foreign affairs, the top administrative post in power and prestige in the Confederation.

Jay quickly discovered that the central government, operating under the weak Articles of Confederation and virtually stripped of its armed forces, lacked the muscle to enable him to obtain a trade treaty with England or to force Spain to recognize America's claim to the free navigation of the Mississippi, the outlet of which Spain controlled.

He even lacked the funds or the naval power to prevent the Barbary states of North Africa from capturing American merchant ships and seamen and holding them as hostage.

Long an advocate of the supremacy of the national government over the states in matters of peace and war and the enforcement of treaties, Jay joined Alexander Hamilton and James Madison in writing The Federalist, a series of 85 newspaper letters supporting the Constitution.

Although not picked by the New York legislature to attend the Philadelphia convention, he shared with Hamilton the chief honors for persuading his own state's hostile ratifying convention to support the Constitution without conditional amendments.

Appointed by President George Washington to be the first chief justice of the United States Supreme Court, Jay issued a series of audaciously nationalist expositions of the Constitution.

When he traveled on circuit, as Supreme Court justices were required by law to do in those days, he made a point of expounding his nationalist views of the Constitution.

With rare courage, he informed the Richmond grand jury that Virginians were by the terms of the Treaty of 1783 with Great Britain obligated to pay pre-war debts owed to British subjects.

He struck boldly at the actions of state legislatures and individuals who for a dozen years had sought to circumvent the treaty by stay laws, paper money and legal tender laws. Such actions, Jay declared, seriously damaged America's reputation and credibility.

His views of national supremacy were voiced in two notable cases. In the first case, Chisholm v. Georgia, Jay held for the first time that a state could be sued by a citizen of another state—a point on which the Constitution is ambiguous. The decision elicited a torrent of protest from the various state legislatures and the quick passage of the 11th Amendment making states immune to such suits.

In the second case, Glass v. Betsley (1794), Jay asserted the full power of the United States District Court, under its admiralty jurisdiction, to determine the legality of prize ships brought into ports of the U.S. This is still considered a landmark case as a vindication of national rights.

In 1794, Washington dispatched Jay to England to resolve a whole series of outstanding differences with the mother country. Jay got the British to agree to withdraw troops from the American frontier posts they still occupied, but in the opinion of many Americans the gains were meager and the treaty was only ratified after a resounding battle in Congress.

On his return to New York from his second diplomatic mission, Jay found that in his absence he had been elected the state's governor, which post he held until 1801. In that capacity one of his most notable acts was to sign a law for the gradual ending of slavery in the state, a cause to which he had been intensely devoted for many years.

In his long retirement at his country estate in Bedford, N.Y., Jay had the satisfaction of seeing John Marshall expound and expand with vigor the nationalist expositions of the Constitution that he had voiced in his comparatively brief tenure on the High Court.

9 posters explain job rights

State and federal laws require Illinois employers to display certain informational posters in a conspicuous place in the workplace where employees can see them.

They are as follows:

• FEDERAL:

• Equal Employment:

Employers with 15 or more employees are required to display the revised poster, "Equal Employment Opportunity is the Law." It must also be displayed by all contractors and subcontractors who enter into an agreement with the federal government in excess of $2,500 for the principal purpose of furnishing services.

• Minimum Wage-Overtime:

A poster entitled "Your Rights Under the Fair Labor Standards Act" (WFL 1089) is required for all employers covered under the Fair Labor Standards Act.

• Federally Financed Construction:

The poster "Notice to Employees Working on Federal or Federally Financed Construction Projects" (WFL 1321) must be posted at the job site if the company is engaged in work covered by the Davis-Bacon Act or one of the federal laws applicable to federal or federally assisted construction.

• Occupational Safety and Health Act (OSHA 2201):

The OSHA poster "Job Safety and Health Protection" is required of all employers covered by the federal OSHA law. Note: By inference, this poster also covers the OSHA Hazard Communication Standard.

(The four posters can be obtained by writing to the U.S. Department of Labor, Forms and Publications, 230 S. Dearborn St., 10th Fl., Rm. 1078, Chicago, Ill. 60604, phone 1-312-686-5379. You can order any quantity, and no return address label is necessary.)

• STATE:

• "Notice to Employer and Employee" (No. 478):

This poster includes information needed for payment of wages, unemployment insurance, minors under 16 years of age, and minimum wage. It is required for all Illinois employers.

• "Right to Know" (Toxic Substances Disclosure):

Explains employee rights and employer responsibilities under the Illinois "Right to Know" Act. Note:

Illinois manufacturers are no longer required to post this sign.

Both posters are available only from the Illinois Department of Labor, Planning, Research and Information Division, 310 S. Michigan Ave., Chicago, Ill. 60604, phone 1-312-793-2800.

• Workers' Compensation Notice to Employees (WFL 6339):

Briefly explains employees' responsibilities if there is a work-related accident. Also has a place to list employee's insurance carrier or compensation claims. Available from the Illinois Industrial Commission, Secretary's Office, 100 W. Randolph St., 8th Fl., Chicago, Ill. 60601, phone 1-312-917-6611.

• "Notice to Workers about Unemployment Insurance Benefits":

Explains how to file a claim, benefit amounts, eligibility, and more. Note: This is a new poster issued December 1985. Order from the Illinois Department of Employment Security, 910 S. Michigan Ave., Rm. 1101, Chicago, Ill. 60605, phone 1-312-793-4880.

• "Choke-Saving":

Must be posted in every food service facility. Order from the Illinois Department of Public Health, Division of Emergency Medical Services, 525 W. Jefferson St., Springfield, Ill. 62761.

• RECORD-KEEPING:

Federal and Illinois laws vary regarding what records employers must retain and for how long. Here are some general guidelines:

• Fair Employment and Equal Opportunity:

General personnel records (including application forms, promotion and discharge, tests, physical exams, etc.)—one year; for employees (name, address, date of birth, occupation, pay rates and earnings)—three years.

• Wage and Hour:

Payroll records, certificates, agreements, plans, notices, etc.—three years; supplementary basic records, such as timecards, work time schedules, wage-rate tables, etc.—three years.

• OSHA (Occupational Safety and Health):

All federal (e.g., Form 200) and Illinois (e.g., Form 45) reports—five years.

• ERISA (Pension Reform Act):

All records pertinent to covered plans—six years.

How to pick a car and strike a good deal

By GARY WITZENBURG

Contributing Editor
Motor Trend Magazine

I just did my first video. No, not that kind. No rock 'n' roll, no kinky sex. Just a lot of useful information about cars, how to shop for one, how to save money, leasing versus buying, that kind of thing. It also has a complete buyer's guide of the 1986 domestic cars.

IT'S CALLED the "1986 Home Auto Show," presented by "Consumers Digest" magazine, produced by Motorsports Productions and distributed by Bookshelf Video, P.O. Box 5370-282, Santa Ana, Calif. 92701, (714) 857-0206. And, if you'll forgive the blatant plug, I'll use this column to pass on some of the useful tips.

Of course, the first thing you should do before going out shopping for a car is decide what type of car you want — small, medium or large, luxury or sport, sedan or convertible. Now that may sound a little silly, but you'd be amazed how many people walk into dealerships thinking "sports car," and drive out in station wagons.

Do some homework. Watch the "Home Auto Show" (hint, hint), pick up the "Consumers Digest" buyer's guide issue, or one of the other excellent buyer's guides available at the newsstand. Zero in on the cars that interest you. Make a list, and find out where the dealers are.

Make a checklist of features, options and specifications that are important to you: five-speed or automatic transmission, premium stereo, power steering, trunk capacity, anchors for child safety seats, etc. Leave room to note whether each feature is standard or what it costs as an option, and list them roughly in order of priorities — what you really need at the top, what you'd like to have at the bottom.

DON'T TAKE your checkbook the first time out. You don't want to make an impulse buy that you may regret later.

The first dealer visits should be for information only. Sit in each car. Try the seatbelts for comfort. Try the accessories and controls. Ask questions, gather brochures and prices, check off your checklist. If the salesperson won't talk prices without some high-pressure hassle, copy them from window stickers. Make it clear to him or her that you're a serious shopper, but not buying today.

Now, go home and look over your information. Some cars will fall off your list — too small, too expensive, or don't have what you want. Some may be added.

Test drive on the second visit, when your list is down to a few serious candidates. And do take that drive. Insist on it. If a salesperson says, "Sorry, no demo," tell him, "Sorry, no sale." Too many people buy a car without ever driving it and find out later it doesn't really suit them.

DRIVE THE model closest to what you want. Don't test the six-cylinder engine with automatic if you're interested in the four-cylinder, five-speed. Drive it up hills, on freeways, in stop-and-go traffic — the way you normally use your car — not just around the block.

To save money, take time to shop for the best deal on the car, the insurance, the financing. Don't settle for the first thing that comes along.

A dealer finances his cars and pays interest every month, so he's usually willing to deal to get rid of one he already has. But a very popular car may be an exception.

It may be loaded with extras, high dealer preparation charges and "additional" dealer markup (ADM). He figures the next person will pay the price if you don't. But he might cut a better deal on a similar car that you order.

Keep in mind that the maker's suggested retail price on the window sticker is just that — suggested. If a car is a slow seller, the dealer will probably take less. If it's in high demand, he may tack on an ADM. If you must have a car that people are standing in line to buy, at least shop the price. Find one that isn't overly loaded and try to buy at the best time near the end of the month, or when there's a special incentive for salespeople, like a vacation trip or an extra bonus.

IF YOU DO order a car, you can pick and choose your options, and that helps keep the price down. Remember, the salesman works on commission — the more you spend, the more he (or she) makes. Don't get talked into options you really don't need.

On the other hand, it pays to think resale when you're ordering. Popular options like air conditioning, power steering and automatic transmission usually increase value and make the car worth more, and easier to sell, later.

Option packages (like a "comfort and convenience group") almost always save money, over the same options ordered separately. They also add value at resale time. And, while higher-priced "upmarket" versions of the same car cost more up front, they also come with more equipment and bring more as used cars than optioned-up base models.

Trade in your old car only as a last resort, or if the convenience is worth the money you lose. Trading a car is like selling to the dealer at wholesale. He'll clean it up, sell it at retail and make a profit. Why not sell at retail yourself and pocket the difference? It can mean several hundred dollars, or more.

IF A DEALER offers more in trade than your car is worth, he's probably charging more for the car you're buying. Keep your eye on the bottom line, the difference. That's what you're actually paying or financing.

And financing over a longer time, for four or five years keeps the payments down but costs much more in interest. You save in the long run by going for the lowest rate and the shortest term.

New-car leasing has become more popular lately but there are pros and cons. The biggest plus is a small down payment, usually one month's payment plus a security deposit. But it takes stronger credit to get a lease. The major negative: It's like renting a house instead of buying, and you have nothing to show for your money afterwards. Also, the total cost of a lease is usually more, unless you can write off use of the car as a business expense.

A "closed-end" lease lets you walk away after a fixed number of payments. An "open end" lease costs more but gives the option to buy when it's over. Both are based on the difference between the selling price and estimated used value, and you're responsible for insurance, service and repairs.

Some lenders now offer lease-type purchase plans with payments based on assumed depreciation, and a large "balloon" payment at the end. That keeps monthly payments low and lets you sell the car or refinance it when the balloon is due.

WHILE MOST dealers are honest, there are sometimes misunderstandings. To fully protect yourself, make sure the contract spells out every detail. No verbal promise is reliable enough. Be sure the deal is not subject to change, and that it's signed by a manager or someone else whose signature is binding.

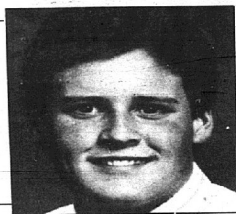

Finally, be sure to buy the right car for you. The one that looks and drives just right, that matches your needs and desires and lifestyle. The one that makes you feel the best.

Because if you really like your car, if you're proud of it and really enjoy driving it, you'll take better care of it. And it will take better care of you.

Stearns heads sales department

Bill Stearns, sales manager, Novotny Chevrolet, in Granite City, was born and raised in Granite City and has been in the car business for 12 years.

For 10 years he owned Stearns' Auto Sales in Granite City and has been sales manager for Novotny Chevrolet for seven months.

Stearns works with a staff of nine salespeople in both the new and used car department.

As sales manager, Stearns will be teaching his staff the principles he learned in his recently completed Chevrolet sales course, "Integrity in Selling."

When asked to comment on trends in the auto market, Stearns said that he thinks the trend in larger cars is temporarily due to the oil glut, but that all of Chevy's new models are getting excellent mileage.

The 1986 Nova has surpassed all of Chevy's expectations and is now outselling the similar model produced by Toyota. Stearns foresees more joint ventures with the Japanese auto manufacturers. As with the Nova, Stearns feels other cooperative ventures could produce outstanding results.
